A taxonomy is a nothing more than a classification system that arranges elements within a field of science according to their relationships. As educational psychology progressed in the early 1900's, researchers sought to improve methods of teaching and learning by classifying the response and reaction to information and mapping intellectual functions.

In human biology, handedness is a better, faster, or more precise performance or individual preference for use of a hand, known as the dominant hand; the less capable or less preferred hand is called the non-dominant hand. Men are somewhat more likely to express a strongly dominant left hand than women. It is estimated that between 70 and 95 percent of the world's population is right-handed.

1. Adversity. In 2013, the United States reached an educational milestone. For the first time, a majority of the country's public school students — 51 percent of them, to be precise — fell below the federal government's threshold for being low income, meaning they were eligible for a free or subsidized school lunch.
